DETAILED ACTION

Page 2

1. Per Applicant's request, the previously set period for reply will be restarted due to a defect in the final office action (paper #8). The office action sent on March 6th, 2002 is in error since it address all the claims instead of the elected claims 59-77. This error has been corrected in this office action.

Response to Arguments

2. Applicant's arguments filed January 8, 2002 (paper # 6) have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicant argues that independent claim 59 and the claims dependent therefrom, claims 60-77, are not anticipated by Vatsvog (5,259,288) where applicant argues that Vatsvog does not disclose a cartridge casing body being molded around at least a portion of the projectile. Applicant's attention is directed to col. 8, lines 25-29 where Vatsvog states a cartridge casing body (112) is molded into canalure (160), which is part of the projectile (110), as means to hold projectile (110) to form a plastic cartridge casing body having a first end to which the projectile is attached and a second end (fig. 12). Therefore, Claims 59-77 remain rejected.

Drawings

3. The drawings submitted on January 8, 2002 (paper # 7) are accepted by examiner and the objection to the drawing has been withdrawn.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

4. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

Art Unit: 3641

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless – (b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

5. Claim 59 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Vatsvog (5,259,288). Vatsvog discloses a method of making an ammunition article, comprising the steps of: molding plastic around at least a portion of a projectile (12, 110) to form a plastic cartridge casing body (10, 112), which includes a first interior portion, defined by the portion of the projectile (12, 110) a second interior portion (16) having a smaller diameter than the first interior portion (fig.2-3) and separated by a shoulder (20).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

- 6. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:
 - (a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.
- 7. Claims 62 and 63 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Vatsvog (5,259,288). Vatsvog teaches all the limitations of claims 62-63 as applied to the claims 59 above, except the step of heat bonding or adhesive bonding the projectile to the cartridge casing body. At the time of the invention, it would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art to heat bond or adhesive bond the projectile to the cartridge casing body as a further step to the molding since it is well known in the art that any conventional method of securing the projectile can be used to secure the projectile to the casing body.

Art Unit: 3641

- 8. Claims 60-61 and 64 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Vatsvog (5,259,288) in view of Scanlon (3,745,924). Vatsvog teaches all the limitations of claims 60-61 and 64 as taught in claim 59 above except a core pull. Scanlon teaches a core pull (36) having a first end (16) to which the projectile is attached and a second end (22), comprising a method of making an ammunition article which includes: a method of molding the plastic (col.4, line 60 until col.5 line 4) around the core pull such that the core pull and the projectile define an interior volume and a step of removing the core pull form the casing (fig. 8); and where the plastic is molded around the portion of the projectile that the plastic enters a recess in the portion of the projectile and forms a flange on the casing extending in the recess (fig. 1).
- 9. Claims 65-77 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Vatsvog (5,259,288) in view of Boutwell (3,144,827).

As to claims 65-67 and 69-77, Vatsvog disclose all the limitations of claims 65-67 and 69-77 as applied to claim 59 above, except a base attached to the second end and steps of molding the base from plastic prior to attaching the base to casing and various method of attaching the base to casing. Boutwell teaches an ammunition article comprising: a molded plastic cartridge case body (2, col. 2, line 17) having a closed front-end (6) that reduce in thickness and includes a stress concentrator for tearing of the closed front end (col. 1 line 70 to col. 2, line 6); a second end with a base (1) attached where the base is a molded plastic base (col. 2, lines 18-20) which can be replaceable and is attached mechanically by a locking mechanism (3,5); a primer (9); a propellant charge inside the cartridge casing body (col. 1, lines 68-69); and where the interior volume of the casing includes a first interior portion and a second interior portion where the second interior portion has a smaller diameter than the first interior portion and is separated by a shoulder (fig. 2). At the time of the invention, it would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art to have a molded base attached with the casing instead of a single piece to have an ammunition article which is easy to assembly and which consistently performs satisfactorily (col. 3, lines 7-19); and furthermore it would have obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art to use different methods of attachment means to the base to the casing body such as screw threads, ultrasonic weld, interference fit, adhesive and heat bond since these methods of attachments are well known in the art.

As to claim 68, Vatsvog and Boutwell teach the claimed invention as described above in claims 65-67 and 69-77, except for electronic ignition. At the time of the invention, it would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art to use electronic ignition instead of a primer for igniting the propellant for greater accuracy and consistent ignition.

Conclusion

10. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

Art Unit: 3641

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
